have blown up the Dnieper river dam industrial pride of the Soviet revolution, it was announced officially Thursday.

By the Associated Press Adolf Hitler's armies wer ereported to have cut railway supply lines to two vital centers-Leningrad in the north and the Black sea naval base of Sebastopol in the south-in the 68-dayold war with Russia and the Russians admitted a threat at both ends and center of the long front.

The Germans said Nazi troops had seized the Leningrad-Moscow raiload east of Novgorod, choking off vital materials and war supplies.

DNB, official German news agency also reported that the German Rumanian and Hungarian troops had smashed across the Dnieper river to capture Zaporozhe, 50 miles south of Dnieperopetrovsk astride the only direct rail line connecting Sebastopol with the north supply centers

For the first time the Germans claimed a crossing of the lower region of the broad river to the east back on which Marshall Budyenny's forces retreating from the Ukraine established new lines. Crossing of the river would give the Germans and allies access to the rich Donnets basin bounded on the east by the Don river. Moscow dispatches said Russian sailors reinforcing the Red army had gone into action at both the Arctic and Black sea ends of the front. They were said to have joine din a stubborn defense by landing behind the German lines.

Here's Report of Nelson Rockefeller's First Year

The Axis powers are waging two wars—a "shooting" war in Europe and a "suitcase war"—with an army of secret salesmenon the economic front. They made considerable progress under an elaborate plan for economic domin-ation of Latin America. But Uncle Sam is catching up. In "Suitcase War in Latin America," Peter Edson, NEA Service Washington correspondent, tells in six straight-from-the-shoulder articles how this vital trade war is being waged . . . the early Axis victories . . tion-rich articles appears below.

"And boy! What a year it has been!" says the young Coordinator, Nelson Rockefeller, with a shake of the head.

On July 31, within a fortnight of the Coordinator's first anniversary the President signed an order which enabled Rockefeller to get rid of the cumbersome name. He is now simply the "Office of Inter-American Affairs." That might perhaps look incidental, but it is significant of the act that thte picture in Latin America has materially, and abruptly changed,

A year ago, the chances of successful cooperation between the American republics were little more than a dream. Today, thanks to the cooperation and activities of the State and Commerce Departments and Nelson Rockfeller they are a working reality.

Pan-America now means something more below the Rio Grande than to pan" America, vol all, by any manner of means but a goodly share of the credit for this change can go to the volatile organization headed by the broadshouldered, clean-cut fair - haired Rockefeller boy. Mistakes have been made-plenty of them. But nobody around Washington criticizes Nelson Rockefeller's own sincerity.

Office May Pass Out at Emergency's End

From the taxpayers' point of view, one of the most hopeful things about Chairman Rockefeller's work in his Office of Inter-American Affairs is that it is self-liquidating. It is a defense emergency organization.

Its function is to start things, then turn them over to established government departments, agencies, or private organizations which carry on the effort and get results under their

Operating directly under the White House, with Presidential emergency funds available on call and without red tape, the Rockefeller organization has been able to cut through much routine governmental procedure.

When the emergency is over, the office of the Coordinator and Chair-man of Inter-American Affairs, unlike the constitutional State and Commerce Departments, may be liquidated and pass out of the nicture.

Reference was made in line one to the 16-cylinder job. The number was not chosen at random, for while the projects in which Rockefeller's organization is interested run into the hundreds, its operations in developing commercial and cultural relations with the American republics

High prices of such delicacies as tomatoes, cucumbers and fruits-unrationed but scarce, and necessary for balanced meals-add to the food problem. When tomatoes first came in season this year they cost $1.50 a pound, cucumbers 75 cents each, lettuce 25 cents a head, spring onions four cents each, leeks 10 cents Now that the season has progres-

Tomatoes may now be had at the fixed price of 25 cents a pound, but they are hard to find because more people are buying them. That's where wangling comes in and friendship with shop clerks pays dividends. Even so, it's necessary to shop early.

STORIES IN STAMPS

Japan Threatens Safety Of Dutch East Indies

FOCAL point of the Pacific hotbed today is the Netherlands East Indies, a sprawling empire of 20,000 islands covering a sea area wider than the United States. Japan's thrust southward into French Indo-China has made this rich island group the most important objective in the Pacific.

Three nations are watching every move in this Far Eastern chess game. Japan, Great Britain and the United States want the invaluable materials of the islands and may fight to get or keep them.

The Dutch really began to work these islands a century ago. They invited foreign capital, under strict supervision, to exploit the islands' oil, rubber, tea, quinine, tin, tobacco, sugar, copra, teakwood, tapioca and sulphur. They stamped out disease and encouraged native health. Such work was honored by the government in the 1939 stamp above which shows a native nurse feeding an ailing men

The Netherlands East Indies have a well-organized defense consisting of about 80,000 troops, one light cruiser, about 10 destroyers, 15 or 16 submarines and an air fleet of about 200 planes wany U. S. built.

For the salad, grapefruit and avocado marinated for at least an hour in French dressing gives the tart touch needed. Lemon Meringue pie is a universal favorite. When serving lamb chops, provide at least two per person. They can be served with hashed browned potatoes, peas, hot rolls, raspberry jam, fresh fruit, crisp and toasted crackers and several kinds of cheese. Chili sauce goes well with the potatoes. You might inquire whether your male guests prefer hot or iced coffee. If no salad course is indicated, a good alternate is radishes, celery, pickles and olives, jumbled together on cracked ice.

Kroger to Sell Defense Stamps

Stores in South Volunteer to Handle Stamps

As a contribution to national de-fense, Kroger stores throughout the Middle West and South have volunfeered to stock and sell. Defense Stamps, it was announced by Mr. G. Houston, who directs operations of the firm's stores in this area.

Approximately 3,700 Kroger stores now have the 10-cent and the 25cent denominations of stamps available for their customers, as well as the cards and albums in which the stamps will be pasted, Mr. Houston said.

He explained that while post of fices and banks throughout the country have been handling defense stamps and bonds for some time, Treasury officials felt that sale of the stamps would be greatly stimulated if they were made more readily available to the public through retail stores. When a customer makes her first defense stamp purchase in a Kroger store she will be given a card for the 10-cent denomination or an alburn for the 25-cent denomination. The 10-cent cards, which hold 25 siamos, may be turned in at banks or post offices in exchange for defense bonds of various denominations, from $25 up. The bond purchase price max be made up of filled cards, or may be part cards and part cash. bond worth $25 in 10 years.

Linda's accessories are brown with this suit, and she can wear them, too, with the other a trimly tailored model of crushresistant gabardine in a warm, earthy brown. The fitted jacket is long, worn over a skirt featuring unpressed pleats at the center front. Her many blouses are white or cream silk.

No believer in "in-between clothes" for visiting camps, Linda sticks to informality in suits, changes into levening garb for dressier moments, Fale blue silk jersey, draped and moulded, is Linda's pet. Her second choice is a white lace

Defense Role

12% of Textile Production Goes Into Defense Goods

"The importance of the role cotton playing in America's national de fense program cannot be over-esti-mated," Mr. George W. Robison, Chairman of the Hempstead County Cotton Industry Committee, said here Wednesday.
Stating that approximately 12 percent of current cotton textile production is going into defense materials, Mr. Robison said that literally hundreds of cotton articles are being used in large quantities by the armed forces of the United States. In addition, he added that the Cotton Producing Industry and Cotton Trades Industry are cooperating with the Surplus Marketing Administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture in an effort to increase the consumption of 100 per cent American cotton products by everyone.

Listing as typical examples of Army purchases of cotton articles, Mr. Robison said that as far back as March the Army had bought 7,300,000 pairs of cotton khaki trousers, 1,000,-000 canvas cots, 2,400,000 mosquito nets 1,700,000 raincoats, 300,000 canvas tents, 200,000 cook's caps, 10,000 cotton parachutes, 5,000,000 towels, 1,-300,000 gas masks 1,800,000 sand bags, and 430,000 rolls of surgical gauze.

"Increased cotton purchases by the government for the Army and Navy have not been the sole effect of the world war on American cotton, how ever," Mr. Robison said, "On the other side of the picture, cotton has lost virtually all its foreign markets

"Formerly the United States exported almost 7,000,000 bales of cotton a year to foreign markets, This year cotton experts will be less than a million bales," he continued. "Naturally this loss of markets has great ly affected the eqtion industry. The only free markets remaining open to the eleven million Americans direct ly dependent on cotton for a livelihood are those afforded by this coun try. It is essential that we redouble our efforts to increase the domestic cotton consumption.

"By purchasing more cottons now American consumers can assist the otton industry in spanning this period of temporary emergency when the cooperation of all is so greatly
